

=====

Full name: - Mohammed Hamid Said Al Dhaimi

The place and date of birth: - Babylon - Mahaweel -1971

Academic achievement: - Ph.D

Dr. Mohammed Hamid Al-Dhaimi (Professor of Inorganic Chemistry) holds a doctorate in inorganic chemistry from the University of Baghdad / College of Science in 2007. He holds a master's degree in specialized chemical industries from the Military Engineering College in 2000. He worked as head of the general sciences department at the College of Basic Education from 2008 to 2011. He worked as assistant dean at the College of Pharmacy, Babylon University 2011 to 2017.

Dr. Al-Dhaimi worked in the field of undergraduate and graduate studies at various Iraqi universities (Babylon University, Kufa University, Karbala University, Baghdad University and the University of Technology). He participated in several scientific conferences and published a number of researches in the field of Inorganic Chemistry, Environment, Materials Engineering and Quality of Education.

Dr. Al Dhaimi has been active in the field of quality education and has been a member of the Quality Assurance Council at Babylon University since 2010. Published many researches and studies in this aspect and participated in courses and administrative development.

Dr. Al-Duhaimi contributed to spreading the culture of chemical safety and security in the colleges of the University of Babylon, where he was and still is a member of the central committee of the university , he worked as unit official in the College of Pharmacy and College of Sciences for Women's and he is currently director of the Safety and security Chemical, Biological and Radiological Division at the University of Babylon

Dr. Al-Duhaimi participated actively in the first, second, third and fourth coordinating conferences for chemical and biological safety and security. He is currently a member of the Preparatory Committee for the Fifth Conference, to be held in November 2020.